

Child and Family Team (CFT) Facilitator

Although, individuals other than the behavioral health service provider may lead a CFT meeting, ultimately the behavioral health service provider is responsible for facilitating the CFT practice. If designated by the CFT, a team member may assume responsibility for leading team meetings and moderating discussions to facilitate consensus in the development of Service Plan goals and interventions. Individuals other than behavioral health service providers (i.e. family members, Child Protective Services' case managers, and natural supports) can learn to lead effective Child and Family Team meetings.
