

Not Guilty by Reason of Insanity (NGRI) (prior to 1996)

Means that at the time of commission of the criminal act the person was afflicted with a mental disease or defect of such severity that the person did not know the criminal act was wrong and is therefore not responsible for his criminal conduct. (Persons designated as NGRI remain under the authority of the original Court of commitment indefinitely.)