Health Professional Shortage Areas

Purpose

The federal Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA) designation identifies an area or population as having a shortage of dental, mental, and primary health care providers.

HPSA designations are used to qualify for state and federal programs aimed at increasing primary care services to underserved areas and populations, such as the National Health Service Corps Program.

Requirements

A HPSA designation is based on three criteria, established by federal regulation:

- The area must be rational for delivery of health services
- A specified population-to-provider ratio representing shortage must be exceeded within the area as evidenced by more than 3,500 persons per physician (or 3,000 persons per physician if the area has "high needs")
- Health care resources in surrounding areas must be unavailable because of distance, overutilization or access barriers

Programs Using HPSA Designations Include:

- Arizona Loan Repayment Program
- Arizona Primary Care Area Program
- Arizona State J-1 Visa Waiver Program
- National Health Service Corps
- Medicare Incentive Payments
- Rural Health Clinics Act
- Arizona Medical Student Loan Program

Highlights:

- As of January 27, 2009, 63 areas and 72 facilities in Arizona are designated as Primary Care HPSA's.
- As of January 2009, Arizona has 19 Primary Care HPSA's with scores greater than 17.
- Arizona has a shortage of 242.4 FTE primary care physicians.
